Thinking about getting extensions?

No, not those kinds of extensions! I'm talking Google Chrome extensions! They sound a little intimidating if you don't know what they are or how they work, but if you give them a chance, they can really help organize and de-stress your digital world. Episode 10 of the School Library Scoop briefly shows you how they work, but here's a little more information and a list of my favorites for librarians!

Google Chrome extensions are software programs that you install (with the click of a button) into your Chrome browser. They customize your web-browsing and web-working experience by adding/modifying the existing behavior of a program to make it more convenient for you!

SCOTTIE'S FAVE FIVE!

1. Bitmoji Extension: This is a must if you create virtual displays or have a virtual library! It allows you easily grab your Bitmoji and pull it into your document.
2. Screencastify Extension: This is an excellent tool for creating short tutorials for your students and staff! It allows you to create, edit, and share videos in seconds.
3. Wakelet Extension: If you have a Wakelet account, you'll want the Wakelet extension! It allows you to save content to your Wakelet collections with 2 clicks.
4. Print Friendly & PDF Extension: Do you hate trying to print awesome content from a website and you get all the ads, pictures, and junk that comes along with it? This extension takes away all the junk before you print and gives you a nice clean copy of the content!
5. OneTab Extension: Show of hands...how many of you currently have more tabs open than you'd like to admit? Yep, that's what I thought! There's no shame in that game; however, having a lot of tabs open takes up a lot of memory. The OneTab extension saves memory and reduces browser clutter, which may also reduce brain clutter!
